May President's Column

By Katie Sultani-Wright

ASCE Seattle Section President

Greetings, Seattle Section! Class of 2024 engineering students at our local universities are getting ready for graduation in a little over a month. Do you remember your first job out of college? The excitement of earning your EIT and PE licenses? I sure do.

Our May meeting is all about the students. If you haven't been to a meeting yet this year, this is the one to attend. Come meet the future of civil engineering.

Save the date: Show the next generation of civil engineers our support

On May 15, 2024 at 6:00 PM, come to Seattle University to see two excellent presentations by student teams from Seattle University and the University of Washington, meet up with colleagues and students, and enjoy a great meal.

Design Guidelines with Organic
Material

Date: Thursday, May 16

Time: 12:00 - 1:00 pm

Location: 1100 112th Ave NE
West Building
Bellevue, WA 98004

Speaker: Tyler Fouty Ph.D., Jacobs Engineering

Speaker Bio: "I am a civil engineer, specialized in water resource engineering. My passion for water resources stems from growing up around lakes and rivers. This passion led me to obtain my B.S. in hydrology and continue on for my M.S. and Ph.D. in civil engineering. Throughout my career, I have conducted various studies and experiments, from assessing the transport dynamics of microplastic fibers in porous media to ensuring streambed stability with the use of coarse rocks and organic material for prolonged fish passage."
